Raccoon Deterrent

Is a nocturnal animal emptying your dustbins?

In addition to martens, raccoons are moving into our sphere of life. Their natural shyness is gone and they are starting to take great interest in dustbins and make themselves comfortable in our attics. Raccoons are wild beasts that should never be kept at home. They are too dangerous and would also become too tame for a life in the wild. Our Raccoon Repellent helps protecting your house and premises from raccoons without doing any harm to the animals. The device emits ultrasonic tones which are unpleasant to raccoons to make them avoid the area of operation. Flashes of bright LED light provide an additional deterrence at night.
